"Architecture is a process of distillation"

philosophy

Wendell Burnette Architects is an internationally recognized architectural practice based in Phoenix, Arizona. Our portfolio of work includes a wide range of private and public projects. The specific focus of the practice is concerned with space and light, context and place, and with the environment and landscape in which we live. The architecture of the firm responds to the specifics of site and client needs, is resourceful in regards to budget, takes a pro-active approach to the craft of building, and strives to create spaces that engage people. The recent public commissions of the studio evidence our desire to be an active member of a community and the physical shaping of that community.

Wendell Burnette Architects' design philosophy is grounded in listening and distilling the very essence of a project to create highly specific architecture that is at once functional and poetic. Our design approach is to listen to all aspects of a particular building program and develop a consensus of approach with client, design team members, and potential contractors. Through the integration of this process, Wendell Burnette Architects delivers architecture that is both uniquely appropriate and timelessly valuable to the client and/or user. Projects include residences located locally and nationally, the Palo Verde Library / Maryvale Community Center, the Scottsdale Teen Center, and the Amangiri Resort*.

The work of Wendell Burnette Architects has earned numerous honors, including a 1990 Young Architects Award from Progressive Architecture magazine, a 1999 "Emerging Voices Award" from the Architectural League of New York, a 1999 P/A Design Award from Architecture magazine, three "Record House" Awards in 1996, 2000 and 2006 from Architectural Record Magazine, an AIA Western Mountain Region Merit Award for The Field House, and a 2007 National AIA Honor Award and 2009 National AIA/ALA Honor Award for the Palo Verde Library/Maryvale Community Center. Recent exhibitions include "Design Culture Now" at the SMITHSONIAN Cooper Hewitt National Design Museum in New York, "SouthwestNET" for the Scottsdale Museum of Contemporary Art in Scottsdale, Arizona, and more recently in 2008 "Dialogues in Space", an exhibit at the Arizona State University's College of Design and "Architecture in the Sonoran Desert: Phoenix - Barcelona", an exhibit and symposium. Most recently, Burnette received the 2009 Academy Award in Architecture from the American Academy of Arts and Letters recognizing an American architect whose work is characterized by a strong personal direction, which was accompanied by an exhibition of work in NYC.

Wendell Burnette, AIA, Principal

Educated in the practice of architecture through 30 years of direct experience spanning a wide range of public and private work, Mr. Burnette's self-taught curriculum includes a 3 year period at the Frank Lloyd Wright School of Architecture. Burnette's 11 year association with the studio of William Bruder culminated in a 6 year design collaboration on the New Phoenix Central Library as co-designer, project architect, and field architect. He founded the studio of Wendell Burnette Architects in 1996. He has also been an assistant professor at the School of Architecture and Landscape Architecture at Arizona State University since 2000.

Burnette has traveled widely in Asia, Europe, Africa and the Americas to assimilate a world perspective of architecture. In the United States and specifically in the American deserts he has absorbed a unique, regional understanding of place. His work has been presented in periodicals and books in the United States and abroad. Burnette's architecture has received local and national awards, and due to this recognition, continues to be invited as a guest lecturer and critic at Universities and AIA events across North America.
